YOU RUN A FAST-GROWING SME

Your next acquisition already exists. It just isn't for sale yet.

Stan, your AI Corporate Developer, reviews every company on your market every night, keeps the ones that would genuinely strengthen your business and writes down why he discarded the rest. You keep the one job that matters: deciding. No corporate development team, no bank mandate.

- Your first 10 targets from nothing but your website

Fictional example, to show the format

YOUR WEEK

External growth is the file you open at night.

Nobody on your team is paid to look for targets. So you do it yourself, between two client meetings.

Monday, 8:10 am

The third teaser this month

An investment banker sends you a company that "might be of interest". Too big, too expensive, outside your trade. You close the PDF with no idea of what you are missing elsewhere.

Wednesday, trade show

The one a competitor bought

You run into the founder of a company you would have bought without a second thought. Your competitor did it in the spring. You didn't even know the founder was thinking about it.

Thursday, 11 pm

Forty tabs, no list

You open a company registry to "look at two or three businesses". Two hours later: last year's accounts, owners you can't reach, and no idea who would actually create value with you.

Board meeting

"What about external growth?"

Your partners, your bank or your board ask for the roadmap. You have a conviction and three names. Not a case.

A TYPICAL WEEK

From your whole market to 1 to 3 decisions

YOUR MARKET	STAN	US	YOU
~3,000	~245	~15	1 to 3
relevant companies, and new ones every day	screened every week, ~15 kept	analysed and checked, with a memo	decisions a week: YES or NO, which teach Stan your criteria

Averages measured across our first 10 clients: Stan eliminates 94% of the work before it reaches your desk.

WHAT IS AT STAKE

In external growth, you rarely lose on price. You lose on timing.

01

The best targets are bought before they are for sale.

When an owner starts planning succession, when growth stalls, when a partner wants out. Whoever has known them for two years talks to them directly; whoever waits for the teaser ends up in an auction, against funds.

02

Your time is the most expensive resource in the company.

Every evening spent searching is taken from your clients, your team and your execution. The sorting has to be done before it reaches your desk.

03

A bad target stays bad, even well negotiated.

An acquisition is judged by what it brings to your business: clients, products, geography, people. Not by what it is worth on its own. That is the reasoning Stan applies to every company.

HOW PROPLACE ANSWERS

What Stan does for you, every night

On the left, what you need. In the middle, Stan's work. On the right, what you get.

WHAT YOU NEED →	WHAT STAN DOES →	WHAT YOU GET
Know who really exists on your market	He derives your criteria from your website, then queries 22 sourcing engines: registries, hiring, press, fundraises, new websites.	✓ A map of your market that fills in every day: about 3,000 relevant companies on average.
Only look at what matters	He screens every company against your strategy: MATCH or NO MATCH, with a written reason for every company he discards.	✓ 1 to 3 decisions a week, each with its memo. Not forty tabs.
Measure the value created with you	He sets out the synergies (revenue, cost, defensive) and the integration risks in a detailed investment memo.	✓ A reasoned case for your board, your partners and your bank.
Get there before the auction	For every target you validate, he drafts the message to its owner and tracks the follow-ups.	✓ A CEO-to-CEO conversation, before any sale mandate.
Get all the way to closing	He prepares the NDA and letter of intent, then a due diligence checklist and a 100-day plan.	✓ One thread all the way to integration, with your lawyers and auditors.

YOUR MODE: STRATEGIC ACQUIRER

What Stan looks at for you

Stan is not looking for "good companies". He is looking for the ones that would be worth more with you than anywhere else.

Complementary offer
The products or services your clients already ask you for and that you don't provide.

New geographies
A region or a country where you are not present yet, with a client base already won.

Clients and cross-selling
How much your client bases overlap, and what each side could sell to the other in year one.

Digestible size
A target your balance sheet, your financing and your team can actually integrate.

People and know-how
The rare skills it would take you years to hire.

Risks in black and white
Dependence on one client, on the owner, on a technology: every risk is named in the memo.

WHAT YOU GET

Decisions, not lists

The instant memo
For every company kept: what it does, why it matters to you, the verdict.

The detailed investment memo
Synergies, risks, integration scenarios and the questions to ask the owner.

The Monday review
How often Stan thinks like you, your pending decisions, Stan's decisions, and the news of your market and your competitors.

The outreach message
Written for the target's owner, with follow-ups tracked.

NDA and letter of intent
Prepared from the file, for your advisers to approve.

The 100-day plan
The deal's commitments turned into actions, owners and deadlines.
